KATES MEMORIAL SCHOLARSHIP — Is presented to Catherine Buck, who graduated from F.G. Miller High School last spring, by Mrs. Anne Kates. Mrs. Kates and her husband present the scholarship each year in memory of their son Sidney.

Moore visits hospital — board gets go ahead

Mr. Marvin Moore, Minister of Hospitals and Medical Care, visited the Elk Point Hospital on October 1st, 1987.

The Board of the Elk Point Hospital has been concerned that the Nursing Home Project was at a stand still. The Hospital and Mr. Moore's department officials were at an impasse due to the high cost of construction. The project has been estimated at double the original capital budget approved in April 1986. The Board invited Mr. Moore to visit the Hospital and have a first-hand view, and to discuss problems that the Board felt had to be resolved before proceeding with the planning process.

The Board is very pleased that Mr. John Drobot, M.L.A., was present to support the Board in their deliberations with the Minister.

The Minister told the Board that they could proceed, and that some limited increase of funds will be available.

The Board is very pleased with the Minister's visit, and are looking forward to resuming the planning process which will take place in the very near future.

Fire ban still on

A ban on burning in the County of St. Paul is now in its third week, as continued warm, dry weather keeps fields and forests tinder dry.

All burning permits in the County were cancelled over two weeks ago because of the dangerously dry conditions and Agricultural Fieldman Dennis Bergheim says there will be no more issued until rain or snow lessens the hazard substantially.

No permits are required for burning between November 1 and April 30, however Bergheim hopes that people will continue to refrain from burning during that period if conditions remain dry.

A runaway brushpile fire which broke out September 22 is still smoldering under control in peat moss on recently cleared land northwest of Stoney Lake, while another rural blaze closed Secondary Highway 881 south of St. Paul for over 3 hours last week as firemen fought to contain it.

More 4-H members needed

More members are needed for both Elk Point 4-H Beef Club and 4-H MultiClub for the coming season.

All those interested in the beef project, in which the member raises either a steer or heifer to be shown next June, are invited to attend the club's organizational meeting at 7:30 p.m., tomorrow evening, Thursday, October 8, at F.G. Miller High School. For more information, call Ed Vogel at 724-4039.

The 4-H MultiClub, which currently offers woodworking and food projects, will meet next Thursday, October 15, at 7:30 p.m. at F.G. Miller. Remember, young people who live in town, as well as the farm residents, are welcome. For more information call Ruth Vogel at 724-4039.

Info Night Postscript

Our apologies to three groups who were inadvertently omitted from last week's story on the Third Annual Elk Point Information Night.

Representatives of the St. George's Lodge A.F.A.M. and its sister organization, the Order of The Eastern Star shared a table offering information on the lodges. The local TOPS (Take Off Pounds Sensibly) Club was also on hand to make the public aware of this group, which gives moral support as well as diet information to those who wish to lose a few pounds.

We are sorry these groups were omitted from our story, and hope no one was inconvenienced by our oversight.

Editorial

All fired up

The bouquet of the week goes to the Elk Point Volunteer Fire Department, for their outstanding efforts in keeping us safe all year long.

Many of the calls to which the Department responds are motor vehicle accidents, and this equipment could prove vital in saving lives at any one of these.

"Volunteer" is the key word here. These men give up their Monday evenings all year long to keep the firefighting equipment in A-1 condition to learn new procedures and to take safety related courses. In addition, they are within the beck and call of their beepers and the fire siren at all times when they are in town. Should a fire call come in, they drop their work or leisure activities, and sometimes crawl out of bed in the wee hours of the night to rush to the fire hall, don their coats, boots and helmets, and hurry to the aid of others.

Only a group who really care about their fellow citizens would take the time or effort to raise almost $20,000 for such a purchase. But then only people who really care about others would take on the onerous and often dangerous task of being a volunteer firefighter.

During October the firemen will be volunteering additional hours to conduct a safety check of homes in Elk Point. It is good to have potential fire hazards, many of which you may never have thought about, pointed out so that you can take steps to correct them. Please make the firemen welcome when they visit you. The few minutes of your time it takes for the safety check could save your life and the lives of your loved ones.

Over the past months, the firemen have spent extra time at a special project, raising money for the purchase of the Jaws of Life and other rescue equipment.

Give thanks

Let us all give thanks.

Thanks for a community which provides us with recreational, cultural and spiritual outlets as well as our physical needs.

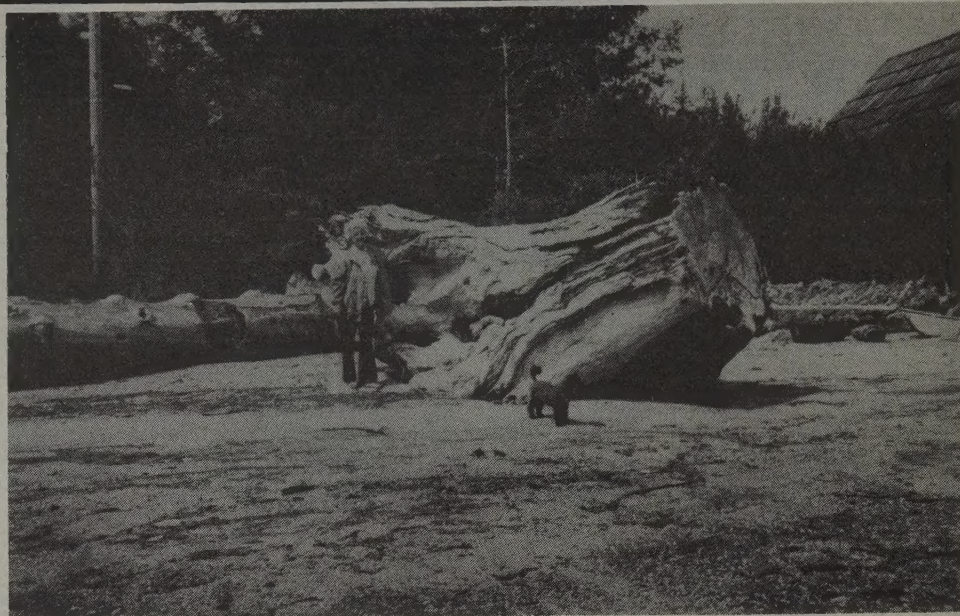

Thanks for the fine fall weather that has allowed the farmers to complete their harvest before a single snowflake fell.

Thanks for a day off in which to reflect on our blessings, which we take largely for granted the rest of the year.

Thanks for families and friends who love us despite our faults.

Thank you, Lord.

Getting older--I'm against it

By Irene Magnusson

There is such a lot of hoopla nowadays about the joys of aging, the "golden years," becoming a "senior citizen," and smiling into the sunset, and so forth. Let me tell you - I'm against it. Well - I'm not against them talking about it an all the funny names they call it - what I am against is getting old. No one should have to put up with it.

For one thing, there is the time. Where did it go? Everything takes longer to do now, and they have shrunk the daylight hours down to a miserable few, while making the nights longer, boring, and tiresome. How can we enjoy the nights when they are full of wakefulness, aches and pains, to say nothing of strange noises in the house.

And days - well, for years I made lists at the breakfast table, of what I would/should do that day, and usually I did them, even in the face of unexpected company, running to town for bits and parts and pieces for the machinery, cows in the corn, burnt bread and broken clotheslines. Somehow, I sewed the dresses for the girls, patched the jeans, canned the berries (first, picking them), and painted the window frames before winter set in. And wrote to my family, curled my hair, baked a million cookies, raked the leaves and cleaned out the corners now and then. Now - still addicted to 'planning my day' with my morning lists, I find, in the evening, when I go to cross off what has been done, that half my day's plans have gone astray.

I owe letters for so long, folks think I've died, and send me condolence cards. My grass is so long the gophers play hide-and-seek among it, after they have fattened on my carrots. Mail piles up on the coffee table, until the news is history before I can find time to read it. All my clothes are out of date, and I haven't had time to dress up in them, pants and shirt being the dependables of a do-anything, do-everything person.

I have found that the dust can pack itself into more corners, faster and tighter, that it once did, and becomes invisible after awhile - not to others, just to me. Machinery gets heavier all the time. The vacuum cleaner now takes two trips to bring up from the basement, weighs a ton, and gets wedged in all the crannies - so excuse the dust.

When I had kids, if I got something that wasn't too delightful, I just left it down low. Before long it got smashed, crashed or lost - ergo, gone. Now, no matter what junk I have, I can't get rid of it. Just how many dishes can one person use? I have a mechanical slave to wash dishes for me; I stuff them in up to the brim, and plug it in. So none get broken in the dishpan, as of old. It takes a long time, with one person sitting on a sofa, to wear it out enough to justify hucking it. The same with curtains, ornaments, books.

The main thing that wears out on me, and perhaps it's not doing it at an unseemly pace, is the car. It gets dirty, and just won't clean itself. It uses gas, and has to be refilled constantly. The roads seem rougher, dustier, longer.

Many folks don't know that older people are still people. For instance, we still like to dance (unless we are crippled or sickly) and probably the exercise would be good for us. But dancing is a 'twosome' affair, and we who no longer have partners are not allowed to dance. Since there aren't enough men to go round, if we should ask another woman to dance, some idiot will think we are "gay" - at our age!!! - and have some stupid remarks to make.

If we still have wit enough to tie our own shoelaces, our kids think we are 'fine' and they are relieved of all concern about us. They can't believe we still need company, sharing in family affairs, playing with the kids. And if we go; uninvited, we are probably 'interfering' in their lives.

There can be a bit of a shock once in awhile, when a batch of family come home for Christmas or such like. Here I've been living on cheese sandwiches and soup, warmed up in the microwave. Suddenly I am required to cook for six or eight persons, big hungry young persons at that, also very picky persons, sometimes, who cannot eat the old familiar foods I used to cook, and leftovers get left. This effort can bring on acute panic, if I don't watch out. But I know where the store is, and can load up the fridge with junk food as well as the next one. And I do. Anything to get them to come, to stir the dust, fill the rooms with noise, wrinkle the blankets.

So where has this day gone? Why is my organ covered with dust? Maybe I'll recover, now the sale is over, if I can sell or rent the house (my mother's) and if I can ever get everything sorted out. But I sure wish they'd make the days a bit longer.

Mural watch

By Billie Lynne Milholland.

It is time for Thank You's again and that is how it goes with a project this big; it requires the help and support of a cast of thousands for its success and I am extremely grateful that all of you continue to be so generous.

I am especially grateful to Berjim Enterprises and Elk Point Gas Limited for the use of this space to work in. This location is so well situated that it has enabled a vast amount of people to become excited about seeing the mural before it is even up in its permanent location. This has not only benefited the mural project but also the town, indirectly. Out-of-town people who have wanted to see the mural on their way to somewhere else have returned with friends and/or family specifically to see the mural. Many of them expressed thankfulness that we had provided them with an excuse for a weekend outing. Thanks again guys.

Thanks also to Daves' Pizza for taking messages, loaning chairs and giving out a steady supply of moral support. This goes as well to the valiant ladies in the Lakeland Review office who patiently listen to my unending barrage of ideas and inspirations and always offer tea and sympathy during my moments of discouragement and exhaustion. And Karen at the Gas Co. for listening and helping me with my unusual photocopying problems. And Ronnie Barwich and Steve Andrichak for great old photos, stories, and artifacts that have made my research job much easier. There are many other people who must be mentioned, especially the people helping on the site preparation. Since I am not involved with this part of the project I am not familiar with who has helped and what has gone on but the Historical Society has assured me that they will bring me up to date with these and other pertinent information.

Japanese student at F.G.M.

A seventeen year old resident of Nagasu, Province of Kumamoto, Japan has become one of the new Grade 11 students at F.G. Miller High School.

Kaoru Miida is in Elk Point as part of an International Fellowship program. She arrived in Canada August 29 and will remain here until July 15 of next year. She is staying with Gary and Donna Gulayec and family of Elk Point, where she has "already become part of the family", Mrs. Gulayec says.

Both Elk Point and F.G. Miller High are small to Kaoru, whose hometown, small by Japanese standards, has 25,000 people. Her school has 1500 students and 100 teachers. She was shocked to find Canadian teens wearing curled hair and make-up to school, because in her homeland this "would make the teachers angry". She also find teens here "talk on the phone lots."

Students at her school in Japan wear a school uniform, and go to school 6 days a week "and sometimes on Sunday to write tests". Their school days start at 7:30 a.m. with an hour of study before classes, and last until 5 p.m. In addition to schoolwork, Japanese students keep their classroom clean and rake leaves in the schoolyard, Kaoru says.

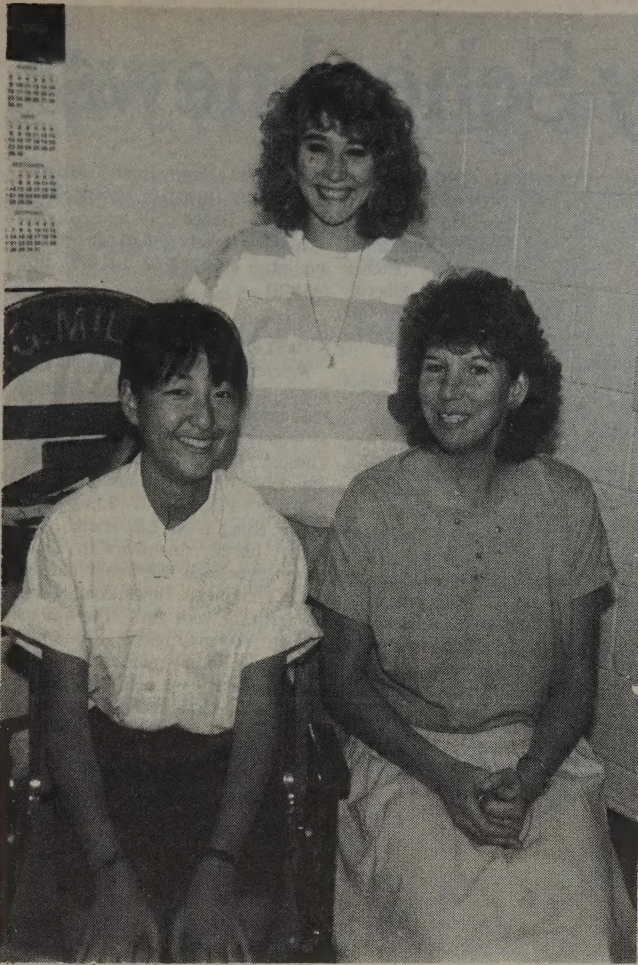

"In Canada, when students meet teachers, they say Hi!" I cannot do that. In Japan, we are taught to bow when we come into classrooms or the office and when we meet teachers," she added.

Kaoru finds life here very relaxed and easy, and copes well with the extra homework necessary to deal with lessons in an unfamiliar language. She says "school is very important" in Japan and she is well accustomed to studying. Japanese students must pass entrance exams to get into Grade 9, and again into college. Grade 12 in Japan is very strenuous, Kaoru says, and students "always must study, and can't have a summer vacation".

Canadian food has already found favor with the newcomer, who includes Ukrainian dishes in her new favorites. She says that there is pizza in Japan, as well as Kentucky Fried Chicken, 7-11 stores and McDonalds restaurants. So that her hosts could try Japanese food, Kaoru's mother sent such delicacies as Japanese noodles, dried seaweed, tea, rice crackers and candy to the Gulayec home.

Kaoru lists among her hobbies, listening to music, playing the piano and cooking.

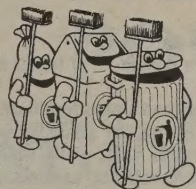

PART OF THE FAMILY — Kaoru Miida (left) has become the new member of the Gulayec family, for this school year, and Jackie and Donna Gulayec are enjoying learning about Japanese ways as they teach Kaoru about life in Canada.

Saddle Slickers 4-H light horse club

By Jolene Aarbo

We have done a lot of things since June.

Elk Point had a parade and we won first place with our float. We had a buggy and a float with Cabbage Patch kids dressed up as cowboys on it. There was a toy tractor and a miniature barn on it too.

We discussed making tack boxes for each person in the club. We decided to make them in the winter when there is more time.

In July there was the St. Paul & District 4-H Horse Show. Most of the club members went to it.

In August Diane Jackson gave a clinic to our club. There was a lunch after we rode. Everyone learnt a lot from the clinic.

On August 26 there was a 4-H Regional 4-H Horse Show in Vermilion, some of my friends and I attended. We all did very well and we also had a lot of fun.

In September our club had a meeting at Dave Kenyon's house.

We discussed what prizes we would have for our Achievement Day and it was decided we would have rosette ribbons. We also decided to approach whoever possible for donations of tack for prizes.

We hope to have our Achievement Day on Oct. 17 but this date has not been finalized as of yet.

As you can see we had a really great and busy summer.

Networking at work--seniors confer

By Irene Magnusson

"A 'grand' day for a drive to 'Grand' Centre" was the opinion of Master of Ceremonies, Sid Holthe of Elk Point, when he opened the session of information for seniors, at 10 a.m., September 21, in hall #3 of the beautiful and complex Recreation Complex in Grand Centre. With over 100 persons registered, the meeting was well attended.

Eighteen interested persons made their way from Elk Point to the meeting, one group travelling in the Elks' van, with FCSS Director Marlene McGowan as chauffeur. Others came from many Alberta points, including Edmonton. Greetings and welcome were offered by Grand Centre's Mayor Ray Coates; MLA Ernie Isley; Christina Kuryliw of Vilna, ACA board member; Mae Porter of Cold Lake and Ron Williams, Edmonton, for New Horizons.

Sharon Prindle-Collins, of Grand Centre Health Unit, lead off the presentations, with an outline of health problems and some ways to prevent them, especially tailored to the needs of seniors.

A film, with comments, on Elder Abuse, was given by Dennis Eisenbarth, of ACA, and Wanda Cree, Senior Citizen Secretariat, showing the problems seniors can get into when they allow their children to take over their lives. It also brought up the fear many seniors still have of moving into public housing, lodges, nursing homes, etc. A lively discussion followed.

Chris Lawrence of ACA, then spoke briefly on Regionalization, a pilot project, of which we are leaders. It was announced that a further meeting in this pilot project of Regional Networking will take place in Smoky Lake Seniors Centre, Monday, October 19, at 1:30 p.m. Interested seniors are invited to attend.

Afternoon sessions were lead off by Mr. Lang, of the Alberta Motor Association, on Driver Update. Seniors have less crash-ups, he said, than any other age group - but this may be a false outlook, when it is realized that seniors do not put on the many miles other age groups do. So on an accident-per-mile-driven, seniors do not have such a rosy record. Re-training and testing are probably the way to go.

Wanda Cree, S.C.S., offered the booklet on Benefits and Services for Seniors, which is free for the asking, and lists all government programs, financial assistance, and other benefits available to seniors. She read from it, and explained parts in detail.

Evelyn Lowe, FCSS in Grand Centre, showed the Emergency Help Line device, which could be worn by someone with a serious health condition (such as heart disease) and activated to call someone for help very readily. This device may be purchased or rented, and programmed to the individual's needs. It could prove to be a lifesaver, indeed. This is called the Appello System.

The final presentation for the day came from Municipal Affairs-Housing Division, and dwelt on the present and past state of housing for seniors in our province. A great deal of improvement has taken place, there is room for more, and in general it seems the welfare of the seniors is prominent in the department's planning and budget. Ed Hodder, who gave the presentation, stated that as lately ago as 25 years, seniors in lodges average age was 65 years, today the average is 85 - so we are living longer. Housing is being built, the cost is high, and any improvements possible are being added, with some things desired being still out of financial reach.

Both morning and afternoon refreshments and the noon luncheon were catered by the Grand Centre Seniors group, and were enjoyed in the Seniors' Drop-In part of the (official name) "Leisure Sports Village", which houses many activities. A deed well done.

The Regional Networking Conference in Smoky Lake, October 19, will bring Chris Lawrence of the Alberta Council on Aging, with a full explanation of the concept of Regionalization. There will also be matters of importance to seniors on other subjects. If you care - see you there.

THE PUBLIC UTILITIES BOARD FOR THE PROVINCE OF ALBERTA

NOTICE OF HEARING OF AN APPLICATION BY ALBERTA GOVERNMENT TELEPHONES TO MAKE INDIVIDUAL LINE SERVICE MANDATORY IN RURAL AREAS

NOTICE OF HEARING

Alberta Government Telephones (AGT) filed an application with the Public Utilities Board (the Board) dated October 29, 1986 which requested, in part, approval of Individual Line Service for rural subscribers in Alberta. As part of that application, AGT requested that Multi-Party Service (MPS) be retained as an option for existing subscribers in rural areas after exchange conversion. New rural customers would be required to take Individual Line Service (ILS) after their exchanges were converted. The Board approved certain parts of the application on August 21, 1987, including the request by AGT to retain MPS as an option.

AGT has now decided that it does not want to continue to provide MPS as an option in rural areas after exchange conversion. AGT has filed an application dated September 11, 1987. The effect of this application is to delete MPS as a service after exchange conversion in rural areas. Accordingly, after exchange conversion all existing MPS will be converted to ILS on a compulsory basis.

The Board has scheduled a public hearing of AGT's application to delete the MPS option to take place in the West Hall of the Energy Resources Building, 640 - 5th Avenue S.W., Calgary, Alberta on October 22, 1987 to commence at 9:30 A.M.

Any person who intends to make a submission to the Board respecting these matters or to otherwise participate in the Hearing should indicate such intention by appearing at the Hearing in person or be represented by an agent.

Any person wishing to ask information requests regarding AGT's application should provide written questions to AGT with copies to the Board prior to October 13, 1987. AGT should respond prior to October 16, 1987.

Any person who wishes to take part in the Hearing may apply to examine or obtain the Application, Evidence-in-Chief and other related material intended to be presented in support of the Application by contacting:

Clandonald News

By Shirley Osinchuk

Mid-week activities are all beginning at the Bible Fellowship Church, with weekly Bible Club for Kindergarten to Grade 6 from 3:30 to 5:00 on Thursdays. A ride home is provided if needed.

The teens will meet twice a month, beginning this Friday, Oct. 9, to go for a swim at St. Paul. Meeting time will be announced at school.

A new activity, a Pre-school Bible Club will begin on Tues., Oct. 13 at Pastor Steve and Barb Elich's home, for ages 2 to 4, from 10:30 to 11:30 a.m. All pre-schoolers and moms are invited. The hour will be filled with Bible stories, games and songs.

Adult Bible study will begin on Wednesday, Oct. 14 at 7 p.m., at Elich's, then other weeks at various homes.

Everyone is welcome to attend any of the above, come to see what it is all about, and phone Pastor Steve Elich at 853-4220 for more details.

On the sports scene, the two soccer teams in town belong to the Vermilion Soccer Association, under 10 division. On Wednesday, in the playoffs, the Clandonald Aces played the Vermilion team for a complete game period of four, 12 minute quarters, then two overtime periods of five minutes each way, before the game was won by penalty kicks by Sheldon DeFord and Scott Convey, for a 2-0 final score. Well played, boys and girls!

The fall soccer schedule started on September 14, when the Aces lost 1-0, and the Bees lost 2-0 to the Vermilion I.G.A. teams. On Wednesday, the Aces won 2-0 and the Bees lost 3-1. The game with each other on the 21st ended in a tie game between the Aces and Bees.

Wednesday, September 23rd, the Bees played the Vermilion Jaycees team and lost by a narrow 1-0 score which unfortunately put them out of the playoffs. The Aces beat the I.G.A. Blue team 5-0, to continue in the playoffs. Chris Parchewsky played an outstanding game, described by his coach as "pure magic".

Also on Wednesday, the school hall was the scene of the Paper Jet Contest. Thirty students had submitted decorated paper planes for judging. Terri Lynn Brake won for Grades 1 to 3, Marty Etherington, for Grades 4 to 6, and Caroline Thomas for Grades 7 to 9.

Not all the decorated planes were flown, but many were, along with many more plain planes. The breeze was just right for a good flight from the top of the playground hill. The planes flew straight, did loops to return to the start, nose-dived, or did interesting combinations.

The longest flights were piloted by Chereene Cusack, in the Grade 1 to 3 group, Darren DeFord for Grades 4 to 6 and Stace Rybchinsky for Junior High.

The six winners were presented with their awards, Aero bars.

Regular meetings will be starting in October: -C.W.L. on Oct. 5 at 8 p.m. in the Rectory -Knights of Columbus, Wed., Oct. 7, at 7:30 p.m. in the Rectory.

Congratulations to Gwen and Bill McPhee of Allandale, on the birth of their daughter, Marla Rae, on Sept. 1. Marla's proud, big brother is Stewart, and her grandparents are Shirley and Gordon Duggan of Port McNicoll, Ont., and Mossie and the late Herb McPhee of Vermilion.

My thanks to the Vermilion Kinsmen Club who have provided the Vermilion and area phone books again this year.

Congratulations to a new Dewberry-Clandonald business, the Northern Veterinary Services, which will be opening in Dewberry on Oct. 1, in the Dewberry Woodworks building. Dr. Gary Etherington of Clandonald will be on call evenings, with Dr. Barbara Wilhelm in the clinic Mondays and Thursdays, and receptionist Iris Atfield on duty six days a week.

Did you know October is: car care month, microwave month, pretzel month, pasta month, apple month (in the USA), adopt a dog month?

One afternoon was spent at Rochon Sands, on the south shore of beautiful Buffalo Lake. Some people have houses and live there year round. There are hundreds of graves and some of the largest spruce trees they had ever seen, planted there when the cemetery was started, about 60 years ago. Fire prevention week

October 4 to 10, 1987

AT YOUR SERVICE — Fourteen members of Elk Point's 22-man Volunteer Fire Department pause from their duties to wish you a safe Fire Prevention Week, and to urge you to be fire hazard conscious all year-round.

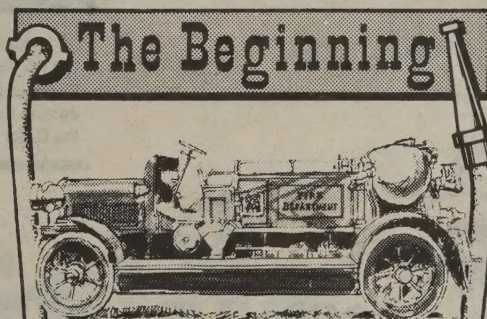

The model T Ford became one of the most popular fire trucks of small community volunteer fire companies during the period between 1908 and 1927.

It was equipped with a ladder, spotlight, hand extinguishers and a small water tank, pump and 50 foot of booster hose. Today, many are still in small American towns as parade trucks.

In the early days in London, barrels of water were required to be kept outside or inside a dwelling. Organized fire-fighting died with the Roman Empire, and was not revived for many centuries.

The English Leyland truck shows the open "Braidwood" style of bodywork of 1911. Very popular in the early days, when there was a greater standardization with the motor truck which generally formed the basis for fire apparatus. The typical fire truck had chemical tanks or pump just behind the driver, an open rear body for flaked hose, ladders hung on the side and side steps with grab rails.

The gasoline or petro engine started as power to pump a horse-drawn outfit. The motor vehicle first came to be used in fire departments in the early 20th century. By 1907 trucks were carrying pumps, ladders and hoses. By the second decade, motor equipment was taking shape.

Self-Propelled Fire Engines . . .

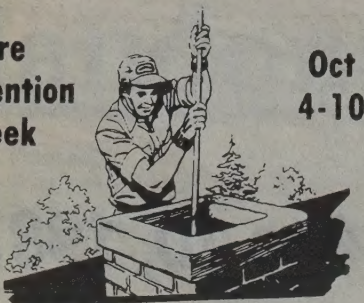

The surprising thing about steam fire engines is that so few of them were self-propelled, although they formed the backbone of most larger fire brigades for some fifty years. One reason was probably the fact that in many places the fire engine was operated alongside other non-powered equipment which was drawn by horses.

Some of the first ladder trucks appeared in the early 1900's. This Swiss Saurer of 1914 remained in service until 1964!

JEFF BUCK -- with Department 1 year, owner of JMB Crushing Systems.

The three newest members of the Department are B. BECHTHOLD, M. MYHR and M. VIG.

The Department holds weekly fire practises on Monday evenings.

During the past year, the firemen formed the Elk Point Firefighters Association, which has been conducting a very successful fundraising campaign for the purchase of a Jaws of Life unit and other rescue equipment totalling nearly $20,000 in value. Through their diligent efforts, their goal has almost been reached by this time, and the much needed equipment has become part of the contents of the Department's Rescue Van, ready for use in any emergency requiring it.

Commissioner's message for Fire Prevention Week

For the last two or three years, the Fire Prevention Branch and the municipal fire departments in Alberta have been placing greater emphasis on the need to reduce the loss of life and property from fires in one and two family dwellings. The need for individuals to protect themselves in their own home has been stressed and the effort has been paying off.

Between 1982 and 1985, fire deaths in one and two family dwellings have decreased by 40% from 36 in 1982 to only 20 in 1985. We in the Fire Prevention Branch are convinced that the smoke alarm campaign, which has been a predominant theme for a number of years, has contributed significantly to the reduction.

However, it may be that our success is to be shortlived as there are indications that the number of deaths in dwellings is increasing and unless we take further action, the problem may return. It is significant to note that this trend in fire death rate is occurring 10 years after the introduction of smoke alarm legislation in Alberta. When you combine this with the fact that smoke alarm manufacturers acknowledge that the life span of a smoke alarm is about 10 years, it seems obvious that we need to increase our efforts to convince the public to maintain their smoke alarms on a regular basis and replace them as necessary if we are to avoid increasing fire death rates.

Maintenance of smoke alarms is important; many may no longer operate because they have not been regularly cleaned and checked. Others may not operate because they should be replaced. Replacement cost is low and they do save lives. Let's do our best to keep these life saving devices functioning. If you have any questions or would like assistance with smoke alarm maintenance, get in touch with your local fire department. They would be pleased to help.

Our success in reducing fire deaths has not been duplicated when it comes to injuries which have increased by 16% in the last three years. A review of our statistical data indicated a major problem with cooking oils and fats. Our research shows that fires resulting from the overheating of oils and fats used in deep-fat frying are responsible for a large majority of these injuries. As a result, our campaign during Fire Prevention Week 1987 is focussing on this very serious problem. Pamphlets, newspaper articles as well as television will be used to bring our concerns to the attention of the public. Hopefully in the next year or two we will be in a position to report the same success with this problem as with smoke alarms. Sincerely, W. D. MacKay Fire Commissioner

KNOW YOUR WAY OUT — All family members should know the shortest route to safety if a fire should break out in any part of the home. This family is planning their escape routes — have you planned yours?

A message of safety

Fire Prevention Week is an important annual event across North America - a campaign meant to alert everyone to the need for improved fire safety.

Statistics continue to show that cooking oil fires are still the leading fire problem in Alberta homes. The Fire Prevention Branch has focused its 1987 campaign on this key issue and hopes to draw public attention to the problem where it can start - in your own kitchen.

A videotape and a brochure on cooking oil and grease fires have been produced for this year's campaign to provide valuable and easy-to-follow tips on preventing these fires and how to contain them if they do occur.

I urge all Albertans to take this opportunity to participate in this campaign by practising fire safety throughout the year.
Dr. Ian C. Reid.

Put a lid on it!

Cooking oil and grease fires in the kitchen continue to top the list of residential fire problems in Alberta. In view of this, the topic will receive major focus during the 1987 Fire Prevention Week Campaign by the Alberta Fire Prevention Branch.

Dealing with a cooking oil or grease fire on the stove is a simple matter - put a lid on it to smother the flames. Even though this may sound simple, many people panic when faced with a grease fire in their home.

Most cooking oil fires occur in deep-fat fryers, pots or pans heated on top of stoves. Injuries to householders, from these fires, result from improper responses and panic behavior. It is not uncommon to find that people have carried - the flaming pot to throw out the back door or that they have poured it down the sink - inflicting serious burns in the process and spreading the fire further. In other cases, people have thrown water on oil fires only to find the fire flaring up and spreading.

Most deaths from cooking oil fires occurred in victims who were asleep or impaired by drugs, alcohol or medication. Statistics indicate that these victims were mostly adult males.

There are a few simple tips to keep in mind if a grease fire starts in your kitchen.

First, put a lid on it. Smother the fire by cutting off the oxygen supply to the flames. It will also prevent the fire from spreading.

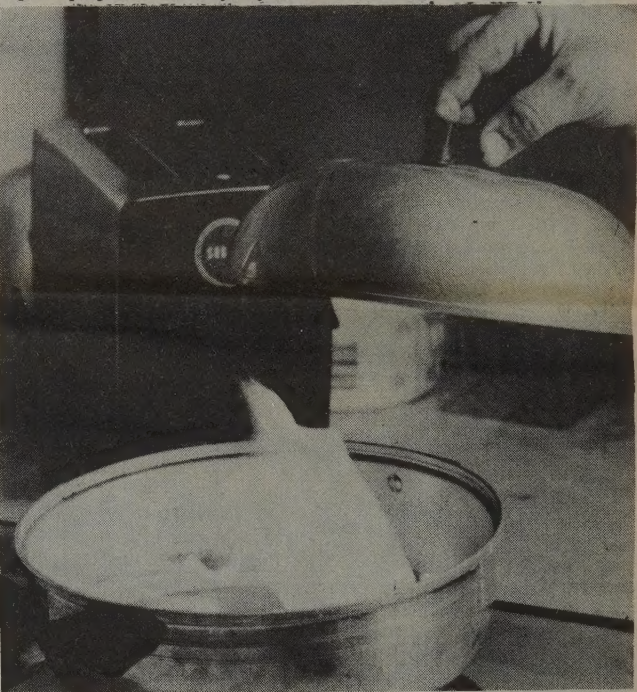

Second, never carry a flaming pan. If the hot grease splashes onto combustibles it could start additional fires, and if it splashes onto you or someone else it could also cause serious burns.

Third, never throw water onto a grease fire. This will only cause the fire to flame up and spread.

The above safety tips really don't address the problems of why cooking oil or grease fires happen and how they can be prevented. A research report prepared recently by the Alberta Fire Prevention Branch reveals that most of these fires start when oil or grease is overheated. The danger limit to heating oil, such as during frying, is 200° C (400° F). Heating oils and grease above 200° C results in smoking followed soon after by the hot oil vapours bursting into flames. The key to safe cooking with oils and grease is not to exceed this temperature. The correct frying temperatures range between 140 to 190° C.

Be Careful When Cooking With Oil or Grease. Never leave the kitchen when cooking with these substances. If an oil or grease fire erupts on the stove, do not panic. Deprive the blaze of oxygen by covering the pot or skillet with a lid. Dry substances like flour will not smother the flames and are dangerous. Water is also ineffective and dangerous if poured into the blaze since it causes the grease to spatter. Do not attempt to carry a flaming pan outside. In addition to; causing the fire to spread, spattering oil can injure your hands and nearby children. Consider buying a temperature controlled deep-fat fryer or a skillet so that the correct frying temperature can be maintained and the oil prevented from overheating and catching fire.

PUT A LID ON IT — Cooking oil and grease fires are the most common household fires in Alberta. Smothering the flames by putting a lid on the pan will cut off the oxygen supply to the flames and will prevent the fire from spreading.

Thank you, Elk Point--
I felt proud to call you my home town

I would like to thank everyone who supported me as a contestant in the Miss Edmonton Pageant. Your phone calls, cards and well wishes via my parents were much appreciated. It was a great feeling to have my hometown behind me. I really needed your encouragement and support as it was a very hectic time with all of our commitments and university back in full swing.

It was an exciting experience which permitted me to participate in activities that I would not have otherwise taken part in. Besides all the neat memories, I have made seven new girlfriends. I would really encourage anyone who would like to try this experience as it is one that you are not likely to forget.
